

Board approves “Feeder School” model

Last night school board members approved middle school boundary revisions to incorporate a “feeder school” model. All Edison, Berney and Green Park Elementary students will transition to and attend Pioneer Middle School. All Blue Ridge, Prospect Point and Sharpstein Elementary students will transition to and attend Garrison Middle School.

- Pioneer Middle School = Edison, Berney, Green Park
- Garrison Middle School = Blue Ridge, Prospect Point, Sharpstein

Although the new boundaries will take affect Fall 2009, current 6th and 7th grade students will continue to attend the middle school they are enrolled in for their 7th and 8th grade years — unless they choose to attend the new school. Since only incoming 6th grade students will attend next year according to the new boundaries, it will take three years to complete the transition to the feeder school model.

Edison Elementary to offer Dual Language Program

Edison Elementary will begin a dual language program in Spanish and English beginning in Fall 2009. The program will be offered to kindergarten and first grade students next school year.

One additional grade level will be added each year to incorporate a K-5 dual language program similar to the program currently offered at Sharpstein Elementary.

Key boundary change highlights:

- Boundary changes take effect Fall 2009
- “Feeder School” model takes effect Fall 2009 (only 6th grade next year -- unless they choose the new school)
- Grandfather options exist for 4th and 5th grade students
- New boundary maps posted on the district website
- Elementary principals will be in contact with families

District recognizes Golden’s leadership

Blue Ridge principal to represent district during local Community Council study

Superintendent Rich Carter has named Blue Ridge Principal Connie Taylor-Randall to represent the district on a local study being organized by the Community Council.

The group is trying to answer the following question during it’s study. How can the region best coordinate its educational, mental health, and housing stability services to improve educational attainment of the region’s children?

Carter said Taylor-Randall will bring a lot experience in this area to the group. Her appointment also helps with a scheduling conflict Carter was facing as the Community Council meets every Tuesday evening from 5:30 to 7 p.m. This time is in direct conflict with school board meetings and special work sessions.

Last night incoming Community Council Board President Greg Forge and project facilitator Roger Bairstow joined Taylor-Randall in providing an update to the school board.

Study Highlights include:

- Study Region: Walla Walla County, Columbia County, and the Milton-Freewater area of Umatilla County (Preschool through post-secondary age)
- Educational Attainment: A preschool to post-secondary student’s ability to succeed.
- Educational Services: Educational services and activities
- Mental Health: How this issue impacts people.
- Housing Stability: Ability to secure and retain affordable and safe living accommodations.
