#5 FAQ

I'm missing some students in my caseload, what do I do?

A: This may be due to the fact that your district hasn't turned on nightly syncs, and the roster data could be old. Please double check with your district's tech person who is responsible for SchoolLinks to find out more. It could also be that the student is new and is not in your district's student information system yet, therefore, SchoolLinks is not getting that information from the nightly sync.

Some of my students cannot login

A: Have you checked if the student has an account on SchoolLinks? To check, login to your counselor account and search for that student.

I missed training. Can I get more training on my own

A: Have you checked out the online academy? Check your email, your district's SchoolLinks project manager should have sent you an email already. Please check your Spam folder or reach out to your SchoolLinks district POC to request the online course information, if you cannot locate it in your email.

I don't know how to download career interest inventory results

A: This is the perfect time to go visit our help center at support.schoollinks.com. Make sure you are logged into the platform to view these help articles.

I need to know how many of my students have completed onboarding

A: There are multiple ways you can check this, go to your SchoolLinks' account > Dashboard > Export (on the top right corner) to generate a CSV. Or you can go to Indicator Analytics to check out the activity completion report summary.

Why is my account not showing the right information?

A: Make sure you are logged in to the your account! It is important to remind your students and colleagues to log out of their accounts if they are using a public/shared device.
