

District accepts bid for Skills Center

Two major subcontractors from Walla Walla

Walla Walla Public Schools accepted the nearly $8.3 million bid from Leone and Keeble, Inc. of Spokane, WA to construct the Southeast Area Technical Skills Center on the campus of Walla Walla Community College.

Leone and Keeble, Inc. presented the lowest bid for the project slated to begin in early April 2013. The bid acceptance recommendation now moves to the State of Washington for final approval.

Two of the project's major subcontractors are from Walla Walla: Walla Walla Electric and Cutting Edge Plumbing & Mechanical. The project is expected to be completed during the summer of 2014 with classes beginning September 2014. Earlier this fall the district rejected all bids for the project due to a funding shortfall of $1.2 million.

"Leone and Keeble, Inc. is an outstanding contractor and have done a number of projects in Walla Walla," Superintendent Mick Miller said. "This project will help stimulate the local economy. We are most excited about the fact this fully state funded project will be built primarily by local people as two of the major subcontractors are from Walla Walla."

In the spring of 2012, the Washington State Legislature allocated $10.3 million to fund construction and equipment for the Southeast Area Technical Skills Center in Walla Walla. The Skills Center will serve high school students from five regional districts.

The Southeast Area Technical Skills Center will offer high school courses in construction trades, welding, renewable resources and health occupation programs. Career and Technical Education courses at Walla Walla High School will still be offered.

AVID program recognition night

Staff encouraged to attend celebration

Walla Walla High School students Felipe Salazar, Chris Esquivel, Ruby Salgado and Alexis Pasillas reported to school board members about their experiences in the AVID (Advancement Via Individual Determination) program.

All the students reported this program is helping preparing them for college and success in high school. They encouraged the school board and staff to attend the AVID Academic Recognition and Family Night later this month (details below).

AVID targets students in the academic middle - B, C, and even D students - who have the desire to go to college and the willingness to work hard. These are students who are capable of completing rigorous curriculum but are falling short of their potential. Typically, they will be the first in their families to attend college, and many are from low-income or minority families.

According to Boggs, teaching, assessing, and reporting based on standards has been a practice at the elementary level for several years.

“The new report card was written specifically for Walla Walla,” Boggs said. “The local K-12 Standards-Based Grading and Reporting Committee and elementary stakeholders at each grade level developed the final version.”

Dr. Linda Boggs

During the presentation, Boggs demonstrated how the gradebook interacts with Skyward. She said this is a valuable tool for teachers. She said she encourages feedback on the new standards-based report card and gradebook. She said this new process will provide parents a more accurate account of their child’s academic skills and progress.
