District Stories

Walla Walla voters pass replacement Levy

Walla Walla voters delivered a strong message of support Tuesday by passing the replacement levy with a 64 percent yes count. This secures levy funding for the next four years. The Educational Programs and Operations Replacement Levy helps maintain the current level of teaching and educational programs by funding nearly 20 percent of the district's General Fund.

"My heartfelt thanks to all who helped with the levy," Superintendent Mick Miller said. "The district's efforts to build relationships, offer excellent customer service and raise student achievement have been acknowledged by our community. Our community truly cares about education and its children."

Levy by the numbers (as of 2/14/12):

Yes: 5,594 (63.88%)

No: 3,163 (36.12%)

Ballots Cast: 8,757

Voter turnout: 46%

Thanks to members of Walla Walla Citizens for Schools, especially co-chairs Shauna Bogley and Peter Swant, for all their hard work raising awareness of the importance of this funding source.

"What a wonderful Valentine to the students of Walla Walla," Bogley said. "We are so appreciative for the support. Thanks to the committee, voters and staff for working so hard to ensure academic excellence in Walla Walla."

Explorer Nomination/Referral Period Now Open

Nomination/referral materials are now available in all district elementary and middle schools for the 2012-13 Explorer (Gifted Education) Program. Parents with students in grades 2 through 7 may contact their child's teacher or school learning specialist/middle school counselor for more information. Program information is also available on the district website, using the following link: <http://www.wwps.org/programs/explorers.htm>

Walla Walla School District's Explorer Program provides students of high academic and intellectual ability with designated time to explore concepts in greater depth. Classes are currently offered for students in grade 3 through 8.

The goal of the Explorer Program is to encourage the development of higher level thinking skills. Students learn to become responsible for their own learning, to develop their creative thinking and critical reasoning power and to strive to reach their potential. The Explorer curriculum for third through fifth grades focuses primarily on mathematics, science, oral and written communication and critical thinking skills. Elementary students are bussed to Sharpstein Elementary School for two half-days per week. At each middle school, curriculum focuses on the humanities, drawn from the areas of language arts and social studies, and offers advanced, but parallel, learning opportunities.

The nomination/referral deadline this year is March 14, 2012. All referred students will take a norm-referenced standardized test and those who qualify for further testing will participate in cognitive abilities testing, also at their home schools. In all cases, parents will be notified of the results of the process, and a child not selected one year may be referred again in subsequent years. For more information, please contact the Walla Walla School District Curriculum and Instruction office: 509-526-6735.

Host families needed for Sasayama Japan student visit

Sasayama Sister City Affiliation Committee is looking for host families for students arriving from Sasayama, Japan on March 24, 2012. Eleven girls and four boys will visit Walla Walla from March 24 through April 3. Host families provide room and board and transport their student to the daily drop off and pick up point. An informational meeting will be announced after we receive the student profiles from Japan and have the required host family commitments. If your family would like to experience hosting a student from our sister city, Sasayama, please contact Robert Keatts by email; robert\_wwscc@yahoo.com or phone 525-0049.

Dorn to Apply for No Child Left Behind Waiver

OSPI OLYMPIA — State Superintendent Randy Dorn announced today that he would apply for a waiver from the federal No Child Left Behind sanctions.

“My office looked at hundreds of comments from the general public,” Dorn said. “I talked to many people in districts and schools and worked closely with the State Board of Education on the application. Schools need to be relieved from the burden of No Child Left Behind and focus their time and energy on helping our students succeed.”

If approved, Washington state would be relieved of Adequate Yearly Progress rules. Current AYP rules include increasing consequences for Title I schools and districts that do not meet certain percentage levels of students passing state tests each year. In 2011, roughly two out of every three schools in Washington did not meet AYP. Schools that do not meet AYP two or more years in a row are considered in a “step” of improvement. Those schools must set aside 20 percent of their Title I money for supplemental educational services and for students who might request school choice. A waiver would eliminate the set-aside requirement.

As an alternative to current AYP rules, Washington would set annual measurable objectives that focus on the proficiency gaps between different groups of students. By 2017, the gaps would be half of what they were in 2011.

“By looking at the achievement gap, our plan focuses on the students most in need,” Dorn said. “Our intent is for the 20 percent of set-aside money to get those students individualized help.”

States requesting a waiver must establish and meet four principles:

1. College and career-ready expectations for all students;
2. State-developed differentiated recognition, accountability and support;
3. Support for effective instruction and leadership; and
4. Reduction in duplication and unnecessary burden.

Washington has met all four principles. In 2011, the state adopted the Common Core State Standards in English language arts and math, and it is a lead state in the SMARTER Balanced Assessment Consortium. The state is adopting a new accountability system. It also passed historical legislation in 2010 that will change the way teachers and principals are evaluated. Finally, reducing duplication is an ongoing task in all states.

No Child Left Behind refers to the 2002 iteration of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA), first passed by the U.S. Congress in the mid-1960s. NCLB was scheduled to be reauthorized in 2007, but Congress could not agree on a reauthorization package, which meant the existing law stayed in effect.

“Congress really needs to do its job and rewrite No Child Left Behind,” Dorn said. “The law raised a lot of awareness that all students need to be proficient in math and reading. Unfortunately, it also punished schools and districts unfairly, and it set unrealistic goals that no school or district can meet.”

Earlier this month, the U.S. Department of Education announced that 10 of the 11 states that initially applied for waivers were approved, and the department is working with the 11th state.

A copy of the draft of Washington’s waiver application can be found at <http://www.k12.wa.us/ESEA/Pubdocs/DraftFlexibilityRequest.pdf>. The final application is due Feb. 28.

Debate team competes in Stanford Invitational - By Coach Jean Tobin

This past weekend six students from Walla Walla High School attended the Stanford Invitational Debate Tournament in San Jose, California. Calvin Brigham (junior), Rosa Tobin (junior) and Kendall Dunovant (sophomore) competed in Lincoln-Douglas Debate.

Calvin and Rosa competed at the Varsity level, Kendall competed at the JV level. Marisol Beck (junior) competed in Congressional Debate at the Varsity level. In Speech, Hope Grant-Herriott (junior) competed in Oratory (a memorized persuasive speech) at the Varsity level and Anna Apostolidis-Morefield (freshman) competed in Expository (a memorized explanatory speech) at the JV level.

Our goal at this tournament was simply to experience National competition in order to better prepare for our National Qualifying tournament in March and (hopefully) Nationals in June. 167 schools competed from 3 countries. We learned a lot and the experience will help our team compete at an even higher level in the future. However, we also had some amazing successes!

In Junior Division, Kendall Dunovant made it to the Octo-Finals round in Lincoln-Douglas debate. She lost the round on a 2-1 decision. The round started at 9:00 at night after a full day of competing! Anna Apostolidis placed 3rd in Expository with a speech on National Anthems.

In Senior Division, Hope Grant-Herriott placed 7th, however in the Finals round 3 out of 7 judges ranked her first in the round. Hope's speech discusses the discrimination that many obese people experience. Hope has already had several colleges contact her because of they have heard about what an incredible competitor she is. She is planning on continuing to work on developing her speech so that she can compete at the National tournament in June.

This weekend (President's Day Weekend) we are traveling to Chiawana High School in Pasco with our whole team to compete at the State Qualifying Tournament.

In slightly older news :) ...

At the Walla Walla High School Tournament, held on Saturday, February 4, WWHS took first in Speech, Debate and Overall.

In DEBATE: Kera Parsons/Julia Cosma took first in PF Debate (they debated Birthright Citizenship); Calvin Brigham, Kendall Dunovant and Rosa Tobin took 1st, 2nd and 3rd respectively in LD Debate (they debated if it is morally permissible for victims of domestic violence to kill their abusers); Kate Kuhlman took 2nd in Congressional Debate (she debated a variety of bills during the tournament).

In SPEECH: Hope Grant-Herriott placed 1st in Oratory, Anna Apostolidis was 2nd in Expository, Rosa Tobin and Emily Prull placed 2nd and 3rd in Impromptu Speaking, Marisol Beck and Kera Parsons were 1st and 2nd in Interpretive Reading, Bryan Preston and Rosa Tobin placed 1st and 3rd in Extemporaneous Speaking.

Many other students from the team also made it to Finals in their events, including Konor Clark (Humorous Interpretation), Kendall Dunovant (Extemp and Impromptu), Emily Prull (Extemp), Kate Kuhlmann, Maggie Grant-Herriott, Ben Parsons (Expository), Tristan Moore and Emma Gregoire (Oratory), Marisol Beck and Hope Grant-Herriott (Duo).
