Walla Walla High School Class of 62' graduate establishes scholarship fund

Blue Mountain Community Foundation to manage funds

Walla Walla High School Class of 1962 graduate Jerry Zahl, with the support of classmates and the community, has established a high school scholarship fund to help area graduates get to college. Currently the fund, managed by the Blue Mountain Community Foundation, has $14,000 with a goal to exceed $100,000 in the next five years.

"We are working toward opening wider doors so that local public high school students with limited financial resources will be able to acquire additional education beyond high school," Zahl said. "You do not need to be a millionaire to give to this scholarship fund. Each graduate contributing their graduation year in dollars and cents annually would be a good place to start. The acceptance and support from the local community has been absolutely fantastic from the beginning because everyone senses the need."

Zahl says the goal is to make it possible for anybody to contribute, any amount, at any time to this fund scholarship.

"If only 100 students from the Class of 1962, out of more than 360, were to contribute $20 per year we would have $100,000 if they had contributed for 50 years," Zahl said. "The costs of an advanced education are rising, and the establishment of this scholarship fund makes it possible for anyone to help support advanced education, commensurate with their means, while assisting many very capable students in realizing their potential."

All funds will be received and invested through the Blue Mountain Community Foundation. To make a donation or learn more about the Walla Walla Public High Schools Scholarship fund, visit the Blue Mountain Community Foundation website: www.bluemountainfoundation.org. ### School Zone Safety Team shifts focus on Pioneer Middle School

School Zone Safety Team members Ki Bealey (City Public Works Director), Katie Christianson (parent volunteer), Officer Mike Ralston (City Police), Dan Johnson (District Facilities Support Director), Steve Olson (District Transportation Director), Mark Higgins (District Safe Schools Coordinator) and Mira Gobel (Pioneer MS Principal) met Thursday morning to work on Pioneer's school zone safety improvement plan.

The plan hinges on easing traffic congestion in front of the school, improving School Zone signage, painting curbs and crosswalks, increasing parking spaces, additional education and law enforcement. The group will meet again October 25 to organize a parent meeting to unveil the plan later this fall.

Last spring and over the summer the School Zone Safety worked with Walla Walla High School Principal Pete Peterson to make improvements. Wa-Hi now features additional visitor parking in front the library on Abbott Road, fresh curb paint, parking lot dividers which improve traffic flow, enhanced law enforcement presence in school zones and administrators assigned to different areas on campus before and after school to supervise these zones.

Online grades in new Skyward gradebook available Monday, Sept. 17

Walla Walla Public Schools is now using the Skyward gradebook for parents to track their child's grades online. This convenient service will be available for parents who have students in grades 6-12 beginning Monday, Sept. 17.

"We decided to institute a two-week break-in period, district-wide, so teachers could become familiar with the system and receive training on the new Skyward gradebook before going "live" with the Family Student Access grades component," said Ron Higgins, Assistant Principal at Walla Walla High School. "Since the grades portion of this system is brand new to us, we wanted to take time to ensure there were not incorrect or inaccurate grades being displayed. There are some teachers who are piloting the Standards Based Grading model and they may need additional time and training to have all their grades updated on Skyward."

Currently, Skyward Family Student Access users who attempt to view grades are met with a friendly "Skyward Gradebook Coming Soon" message when they click on the "Grades" module in Family Student Access. This message will be removed once the system is activated Monday, Sept. 17.

Latino Club members continue Labor Day Weekend tradition of volunteering at fair

For the 9th consecutive year, 47 members of the Walla Walla High School Latino Club helped prepare the Walla Walla Fairgrounds for the Labor Day weekend Walla Walla Fair and Frontier Days event. Beginning in mid-August, club members spent several days and evenings performing the initial cleaning of the pavilion area and fair grounds by sweeping and mopping floors, cleaning bathrooms and glass cabinets.

Besides cleaning, club members helped set up many of the display areas in the pavilion. Club members and friends provided 250 hours of community service prior to the fair. The Club also participated in the Saturday Fair Parade and Latino Club Dancers performed during the Fair. Exploring Post 311 also managed a concession stand and sold food and Coke products in the grandstand during the concert, demolition derby, and three nights of the rodeo to raise funds to support Latino Club activities during the school year. Overall, 80 club members and friends were involved by working over 650 hours during the fair.

The Learning for Life Program, which supports the Wa-Hi Latino Club as Exploring Post 311, is a subsidiary program of the Blue Mountain Council of the Boy Scouts of America. Exploring Post 311's Charter organization is the College Place First Presbyterian Church Men's Breakfast Group in College Place, Washington.

GIRLS COUNCIL teams with district to bring "Finding Kind" film to Walla Walla

GIRLS COUNCIL, in conjunction with the Walla Walla Public Schools Safe and Civil Schools initiative, is hosting a showing of the film "Finding Kind." The documentary brings awareness and healing to the negative and lasting effects of girl against girl "crime."

Girl's Council is hosting the girls of Walla Walla High School, Lincoln High School, Garrison Middle School, Pioneer Middle School, and Sager Middle School on September 20 at Cordiner Hall from 9 to 11 a.m. A free, second showing will also be shown to the public at Cordiner Hall September 20 at 6:30 p.m.

"Physical fighting, name-calling, threats, power struggles, competition, manipulation, secrets, rumors, and ostracizing other girls all fall under the category of girl against girl "crime," said Becky Renwick, Girl's Council president. "We have learned, that if these behaviors are ignored, the experiences often lead to depression, anxiety, loss of self-worth, eating disorders, drug abuse, alcoholism, attempted suicide, and actual suicide in millions of girls' lives."

GIRLS COUNCIL, a non-profit organization operating in Walla Walla provides programming to ages 9 through 21 with the mission of "empowering girls to become strong women". Girls Council has been operating in the Walla Walla Valley since 2006. Through our programming we have seen an increase in school connectedness. Girls who are connected to school, feel empowered through their accomplishments, thus successfully navigating their middle school and high school years.
